

RITE NOW @ ROP

On Friday May 6th, forty State Farm employees showed up at the Canyon State Academy farm early in the morning ready to work. Through the State Farm Companies Foundation, the employees were able to volunteer their time working to make improvements on our farm. Watching the dedication of the State Farm employees as they transformed the horse stalls and small animal area from old dingy white paint to brand new sparkling white paint was amazing.

Giving the horses a good scratching and feeding some of the goats and sheep added to the fun. They spoke with students who work on the farm and learned about the work the students do as well as listened and shared their stories. At the end of the day the employees shared how inspired they are by our student athletes and want to continue to volunteer at Canyon State Academy.

This was a reminder of the importance of community partners being involved in Improving the Lives of Youth and the lasting outcomes that can occur when we come together. There is a powerful message in our students seeing adults choose to spend their time with them helping to create a better place and for the employees to watch the resiliency our students overcome. We thank State Farm for their continued dedication to Canyon State Academy and look forward to continuing the future of a great partnership.
